"In the field of professional speaking, there are many experts on speaking. But what is required by industry is actually direct, eloquent, practical knowledge communicated by experts in their respective fields who also happen to speak compellingly. Roger Harrop is an extraordinary example of the latter. His personal experiences as a high-level CEO coupled with an insatiable desire to improve his craft and a sound understanding of business practices mean he delivers value every time he takes to a platform. I unreservedly recommend him to any organization that craves a breath of fresh air and needs usable guidance on how to stay fresh, relevant and profitable. The man knows what he is talking about!"
